ISTARS Unveiled -- On Line in 2 Counties

TRIAL COURT COMPUTER SYSTEM DESIGN COMPLETED

For many courts across the country, the most recent technological change was the elimination of the quill pen! Trial court clerical staff typically wrestle giant leather-bound docket books, hand-write notices, and try to keep track of fines and child support payments on index cards. For trial courts in Idaho, those practices will soon be history, as a new model trial court computer system goes statewide.

During 1988, judges and clerks from throughout the state were involved in an intensive effort to modify a court computer system for use in the state of Idaho. Working with National Equipment Corporation of Albuquerque, New Mexico, this elite team of trial court personnel developed a comprehensive trial court computer system for use in the Magistrate Division and District Courts throughout the state. Each type of court case, along with all fees and fines, are processed by the new trial court information system called ISTARS (Idaho Statewide Trial Court Automated Record System).

By the end of 1988, the design was complete and the new system was operating in two Idaho counties. The reviews: ISTARS sets a new standard for court automation and technology.

Early Leadership

Since the early 1970's, Idaho has been a leader among state courts in the utilization of computer technology. A statewide computer information system -- CLASS -- was one of the first in the nation to produce automated reports on the status of every case being handled by Idaho's trial courts. Today, this system continues to enable Idaho judges, clerks, and administrators to monitor case loads, compare processing trends, and assess performance against adopted time standards.

Idaho appellate courts have benefitted from automation since the mid-1970's. The appellate tracking system (ATS) provides total on-line tracking of all appeals filed in the state of Idaho. The ATS system is widely characterized as one of the best computerized appellate court information systems in the country.

ISTARS History

In 1986, a special blue ribbon committee, consisting of district court clerks, judges and court administrators, was appointed by the Supreme Court to develop a model trial court information system.. Tapped to chair the committee was Fifth District Judge, J. William Hart, whose residence county, Minidoka, has served as the pilot site for ISTARS implementation.

During 1987, the committee completed an exhaustive examination of existing court software packages. The committee recommended a system developed by National Equipment Corporation of Albuquerque, New Mexico, as the point of departure for the development of the model system for the state of Idaho. A subcommittee of the steering committee, entitled the Detailed Software Specifications Committee, was appointed to work hand

Supreme Court Readies Guidelines For Adoption

CHILD SUPPORT GUIDELINES TO HELP LITIGANTS

It used to be that the amount of child support you were awarded in divorce cases depended on where you lived, or which judge you got. That's about to change, though, when new child support guidelines adopted by the Supreme Court go into effect.

A growing awareness of the inconsistency in child support awards, and the apparent inadequacy of some awards, led the Supreme Court and Magistrate Judges to undertake a two-year effort to achieve more uniformity and fairness in the amount of child support determined by the courts. As 1988 ended, the Idaho courts were putting the finishing touches on new guidelines that would lead to more even-handed awards, and more predictability for parents contemplating divorce and for their lawyers.

Federal Pressures

Much of the impetus for reexamining child support awards has come from the federal government. In the last decade, Congress has placed increasingly stringent requirements on states to collect more child support from non-custodial parents--mostly as a way of reducing federal welfare costs.

Under federal pressure, states have revamped their paternity laws, and have enacted measures such as

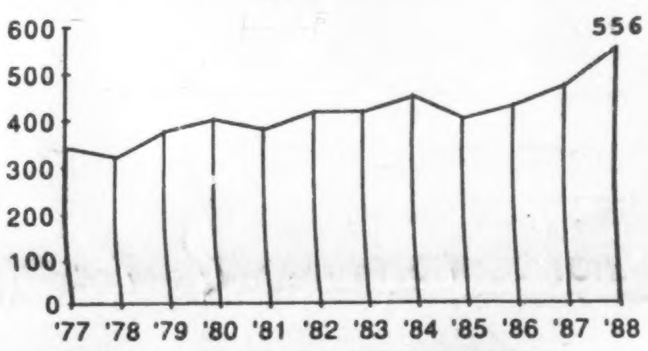
APPELLATE FILINGS SHATTER RECORDS

A new benchmark for appellate filings was reached during calendar year 1988. A total of 556 new appeals were filed during 1988, exceeding the previous record of 472, reported at the end of 1987, by nearly 18%.

National research experts have reported that appellate filings are sensitive to fluctuations within the economy. Improvements in the economic picture often signal increases in appellate filings, although the research reports a 2 to 4 year lag between economic improvement and appellate filing increases. If such research is valid, and if the state's economy continues to improve, Idaho may see future appellate filings at comparable levels to the record numbers reported during 1988.

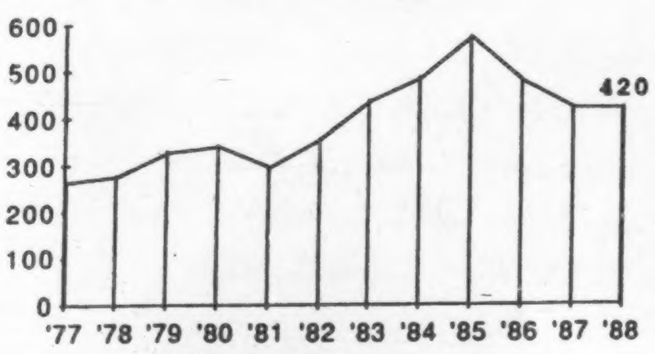
APPEALS FILED



Petitions and motions increased during 1988, as 1,773 new petitions and motions were filed with the appellate courts. The courts ultimately disposed of 1,740 petitions and motions. The number of petitions and motions filed during 1988 was 5.3% less than the 1983 record total of 1,836. Also filed with the court during 1988, were 48 original proceedings and 29 attorney discipline matters.

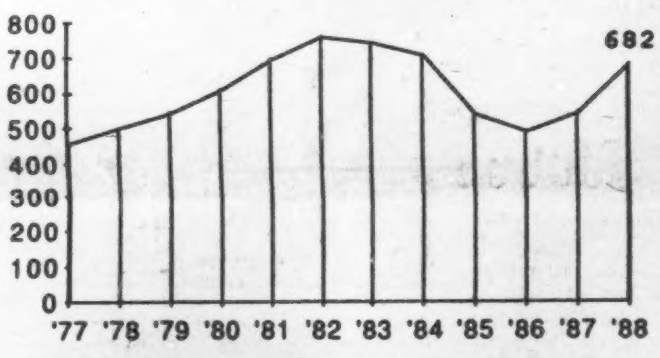
In the calendar year 1988, the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals together disposed of 420 appeals. The Supreme Court disposed of 129 appeals by majority opinions, while the Court of Appeals disposed of 160 appeals by majority opinion.

APPEALS DISPOSED



In response to the record appellate filings reported during 1988, the total number of appeals pending before the Idaho appellate courts increased for the second year. At the end of 1987, there were 544 pending appeals. The number of pending appeals one year later had increased to 682, however, this number still stands below the number recorded eight years ago.

PENDING APPEALS



In spite of the substantial increase in filings and commensurate rise in the pending caseload, litigants involved in appeals before the Idaho Supreme Court and Court of Appeals continued to see their appeals resolved in considerably less time. During 1988, it took an average of 598 days from the time an appeal was filed with the Supreme Court until it reached final disposition. Cases assigned to the Court of appeals took an average of 511 days to reach final disposition. Overall, the Idaho appellate courts have cut appellate delay by almost a full year from 1984's average time of 872 days.

Supreme Court Committee Studies Impact of Emerging Technologies on Law Libraries

Chief Justice Allan Shepard appointed a statewide committee in 1988 to study the impact of emerging technologies on the structure of law libraries and legal research services.

The committee began examining new technologies for legal research, such as telephonic facsimile (fax), electronic data-based research (Westlaw and Lexis), compact disc "read only memory" (CD-ROM), and Veralex 2, an electronic retrieval system, with Lexis as an added feature.

Bannock, Bonner, and Boise county law libraries will be the site of tests of these new technologies, with the goal of making a report to the court and the bar in 1989.

Increase Continues

TRIAL COURT FILINGS BREAK RECORD

With Idaho's economy showing signs of significant improvement, trial courts around the state of Idaho continue to report a booming business. Following a 3/10ths of 1% rate of increase in 1987, new cases coming into the state courts increased by 5% in 1988, to reach the highest level in history - 363,139 new cases were filed in 1988, as compared with 344,414 new filings in 1987.

Growth Changes

During the 1970's, new cases had been filed in the Idaho courts at an almost uniform 4-5% annual increase. State officials became accustomed to predictable growth and responded accordingly, by building more courtrooms and adding more judges to accommodate heavier workloads.

One of the contributing factors to the growth in trial court business during the 1970's was the significant growth in Idaho's population and the increased number of attorneys admitted to practice in the state of Idaho. Between 1970 and 1980, the state's population grew by 32% - from 713,015 to 943,935 - and the number of attorneys almost tripled - from an estimated 600 to 1,540.

The substantial case filing increases crested in 1980, when 321,517 cases were filed with the trial courts. Trial court filings took a sharp turn down in 1981 and 1982, perhaps a reflection of Idaho's economic recession in the early 1980's. This decline in filings lasted only two years, with 1983 marking the beginning of a new trend of increased filings.

Since 1982, the trial courts have seen their filings increase each year. In 1982, only 296,733 cases were reported filed. By 1988, that total had increased to 363,139 new cases, resulting in a 22% increase over the 1982 total.

While the trial court caseload increases of the 1970's took place during sharp population growth, the increased filings reported since 1982 have come during a period when Idaho has actually lost population. This suggests that court business is affected by more complex factors than just population and the numbers of attorneys, and that an important factor in caseload increases is the state economy.

Winners and Losers

Traffic cases (not including DUI) reached record levels during 1988. Calendar year 1987 held the previous record with a total of 220,293 traffic filings. At the end of 1988, a total of 234,217 traffic cases have been filed in the trial courts, representing an increase of 13,924 filings over the number reported at the end of 1987.

Civil filings in the district courts continued to drop during 1988. District court civil filings were at record levels at the end of 1986, but in the two years since, filings have dropped by 15% - or 843 filings - to stand at its lowest point this decade. This drop in civil filings runs counter to the opinions of national experts, who predicted record civil filings to continue through the end of the decade. Conversely, civil filings in the magistrate division increased 6% in 1988, for a total of 47,852 cases filed.

Idaho's small claims departments witnessed a slight drop in the number of new complaints filed during 1988 from the number reported in the previous year. A total of 15,643 small claims complaints were filed in 1987, compared with 15,204 complaints filed in 1988, reflecting a 3% decrease. Although Idaho does not allow attorneys or collection agencies to file small claims, small businesses and private individuals continue to utilize the small claims departments as a quick, inexpensive way to collect debts.

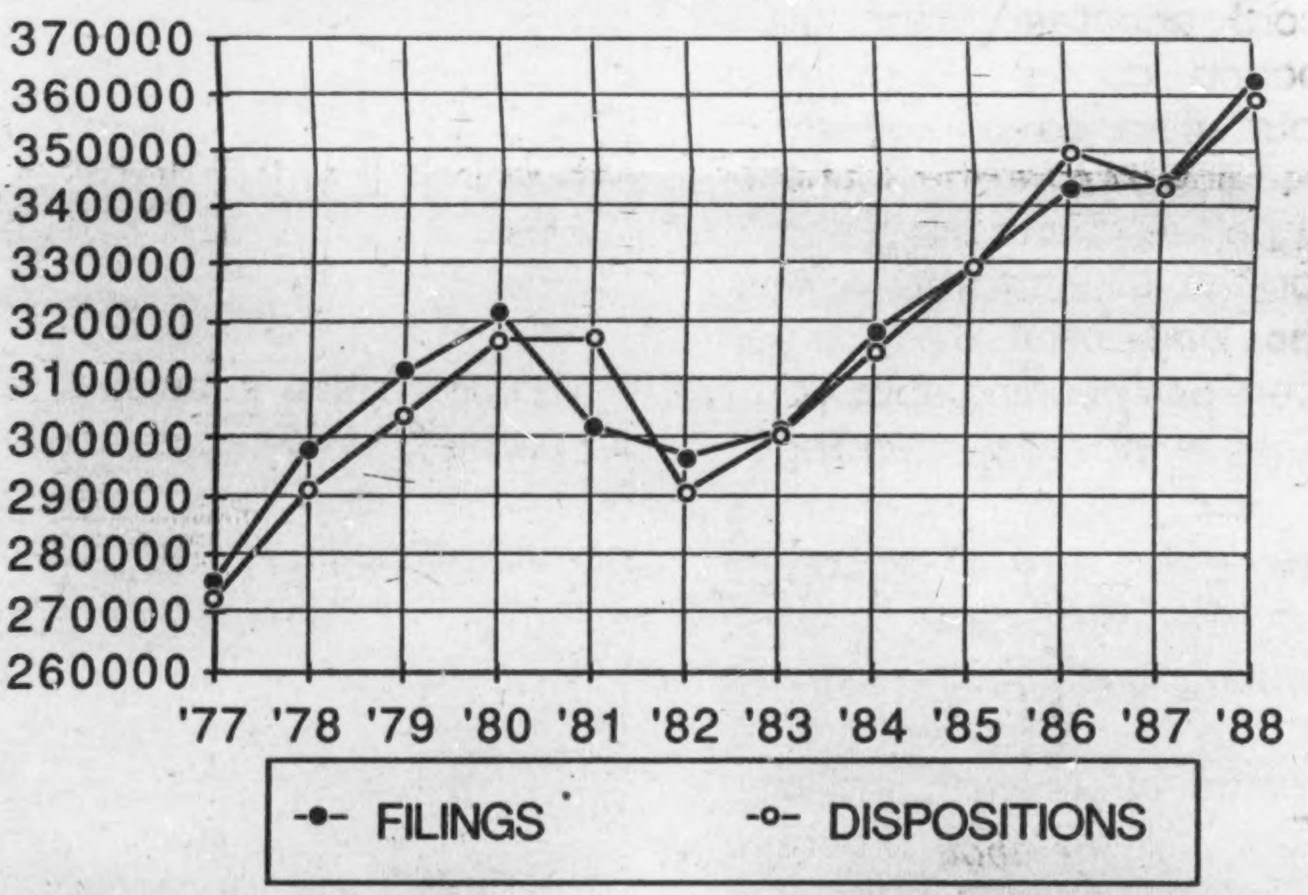
A total of 10,284 district court cases were filed in 1988, reflecting a decrease from the 10,486 cases filed in 1987. The 5,526 criminal cases filed with the district court in 1988, however, represented an increase of 10.6% over the number reported at the end of 1987. The two types of criminal cases which showed substantial increases were felony drug cases, up 13%, and felony DUI cases, up 35%, over the number reported at the end of 1987.

Dispositions Increase

In an intense effort to clear calendars of older cases, trial judges in the state of Idaho increased dispositions from 343,569 reported at the end of 1987, to 359,424 one year later.

The 1988 average number statewide, of new cases filed per district judge, was 311 cases, while the average for judges of the magistrate division was 4,969 new cases. This compares with the prior year new case filings of 317 per district judge and 4,770 new cases per magistrate judge. The district judges disposed an average of 336 cases per judge during the year, while the judges of the magistrate division averaged 4,905 dispositions per judge.

CASE FILINGS AND DISPOSITIONS IN TRIAL COURTS



Of the civil cases receiving final judgment in the trial courts in 1988, 22,717 - or 43% - were disposed of with a trial or court hearing. Of the criminal cases, 95.2% were disposed of through pleas or dismissals, while 14,098 - or 4.8% - received a court or jury trial.

Magistrate Appeals

To expedite the process of small claims appeals from the magistrate division to district court, the responsibility for processing small claims appeals shifted from district judges to lawyer magistrates on July 1, 1985. At the outset, this change resulted in some relief to the district bench. However, other types of appeals from the magistrate division to the district court continued to compromise a significant workload. In 1988, the district courts received 557 appeals from magistrate decisions, an increase of 2.2% from the 545 appeals filed in 1987. District judges disposed of 595 magistrate division appeals in 1988, leaving 288 appeals pending at the end of the year.

New Law Requires Protective Orders

COURTS AID FIGHT AGAINST DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

> "The purpose of this act is to address domestic violence as a serious crime against society and to assure the victims of domestic violence the protection from abuse which the law and those who enforce the law can provide."
> Domestic Violence Crime Prevention Act

Court involvement in domestic violence has traditionally been limited to hearing criminal complaints or civil lawsuits arising out of abuse. That traditional role changed dramatically in Idaho in 1988, as the state courts were given new statutory responsibilities to affirmatively reach out and protect domestic parties from violence.

Fed up with the relative ineffectiveness of trying to get spouses to file criminal complaints against offenders, and deeply disturbed by the frequency and viciousness of domestic violence, the Idaho Legislature passed a new law to combat domestic violence, effective July 1, 1988.

Idaho Code 39-6302, the Domestic Violence Crime Prevention Act, is a law which protects people from threats and violence in the home, and allows them to get protection from the courts without delay. The Act provides that any member of a household can seek help from the courts if they are injured, sexually abused, forcibly imprisoned, or threatened with harm, and they may do so at no cost and without the help of an attorney.

What the Act Provides

The Act provides that a Petition for Protective Order and Affidavit form be filled out by victims, in their own words, explaining why they are afraid of domestic violence, what physical abuse or threats they have suffered, and if they are in immediate danger. The petition is filed with the clerk of the court, who then refers it to a lawyer magistrate. The judge reviews the petition to determine if there is sufficient cause to indicate that irreparable injury could result if an order is not issued immediately, without prior notice to the respondent. The judge must hold a hearing the same day, or the next judicial day, and may then issue an "Ex Parte Protective Order.

Copies of the Protective Order are then sent to law enforcement officers throughout the state, to ensure that the court order will not be violated.

Protections Available

A judge can order the abuser to stop the physical violence or threats. An abuser can be told by the court to stay away from the victim's home, the place where the victim works, or the school location of any children. The court can give a victim temporary custody of children. A judge can even order the person who has abused or threatened another person to undergo treatment or counseling.

Brochures Published

To help implement the new law, the Administrative Office of the Courts has published a brochure, both in English and Spanish, which describes the Act and explains how the victims can get help from the courts. The brochures were sent to all Clerks of the District Courts, Magistrate Judges, District Judges, prosecuting attorneys, county sheriffs, and police departments, as well as Department of Health and Welfare offices. The brochure explains the procedures that a victim or potential victim of domestic violence can follow for obtaining a protective order.

Uniform Forms, Training Provided

Uniform forms have been developed for the petition and the orders. On October 11, 1988, an ad hoc committee was appointed to review and redraft these forms, as the courts gained experience with the new law. The forms were published and distributed to court offices, prosecuting attorneys, and law enforcement agencies, throughout the state.

The Domestic Violence Crime Prevention Act itself and the forms were the subject of the 1988 Magistrate Judges' Institute in November, where judges from throughout the state compared notes and learned how to best make the new law work.

Impact of New Law

Though room for improvement in this new law exists, its impact cannot be ignored, as is demonstrated by the 852 petitions for protective orders that were filed statewide in just six months since the Act went into effect. Each month in 1988 saw more protective orders being asked for than the month before, as more people became aware of the law's protections. As the numbers continue to increase, it is clear that the Idaho courts recognize domestic violence as a serious threat to society and are striving to help victims break the cycle of violence.

in hand with experienced technical personnel from National Equipment Corporation, to modify their existing system for use in Idaho.

The first committee meeting with National Equipment Corporation was held on January 6, 1988. Subsequent committee meetings were conducted every three to four weeks, either at the location of the first pilot site, Minidoka County, or in Boise.

The first component of the model system, citation processing, was implemented in Minidoka County in March, 1988. Additional components for criminal case processing, civil case processing, special case processing, and court accounting were introduced subsequently, with the entire package being unveiled on December 6, 1988 to the full steering committee.

ISTARS Features

ISTARS is a fully on-line computer system that is capable of storing and retrieving critical case status information on every case in the system. The system has an automated register of actions; prepares notices to all parties, as well as warrants, and affidavits. ISTARS accounts for and distributes all fines and fees, while processing and monitoring restitution and payments to victims. The accounting function provides for agressive pursuit of outstanding fines through notice to parties for non-payment. ISTARS provides a full array of calendar management tools that include the generation of daily calendars, the identification of conflicts when attorneys and police officers are unavailable, as well as reports to help manage the use of courtrooms. In addition, ISTARS provides statistical reporting to the Supreme Court and disposition reports to law enforcement agencies and the Department of Transportation.

ISTARS eliminates the need for leather-bound docket books, three-by-five card tickler files, reduces the need to access case files to obtain case information, and facilitates the exchange of information throughout a county courthouse.

Canyon County Goes on Line

Canyon County, Idaho's second busiest court, implemented the ISTARS system in mid-December, 1988. Being over five times as large as the original pilot site, Canyon County seriously tested software capabilities as well as hardware capabilities. With the introduction of ISTARS in Canyon County, the system has proven its ability to support a large court environment.

Future Plan

During the first quarter of 1989, ISTARS is slated for installation in Kootenai County, located in Idaho's northern panhandle. Kootenai County is Idaho's fourth largest county by caseload. Installing ISTARS in Kootenai County provides court officials in northern Idaho with the opportunity to view ISTARS in operation.

Funding to implement ISTARS statewide will be requested during the upcoming legislative session. With a completed and proven system, it is hoped that legislative support for the system will be forthcoming.

Details Available

Upon request, interested parties may obtain information about the ISTARS system, its development and future plans, by contacting the Administrative Office of the Courts.

TRIAL COURT DELAY REDUCTION CONTINUES

In spite of record filings in Idaho's trial courts, trial judges around the state continued to reduce the number of cases exceeding the adopted time standards. With cooperation from public and private lawyers, and with the aid of district court clerks and their deputies, district judges and magistrates scheduled status conferences, held pretrial settlement meetings, and backed each other up where multiple cases were set on calendars, in a concerted statewide effort to expedite case processing.

During the past 32 months, trial judges have focused their efforts on identifying and disposing of cases that have exceeded the adopted time standards. Special caseload reports have been developed and distributed to all trial judges that identify cases over the time standards and the progress made in reducing trial court delay has been staggering. Since May 31, 1986, the number of cases exceeding the Supreme Court's adopted time standards has been reduced by 53.3%.

Major improvements were achieved by both the district court and magistrate division. Overall, district judges have eliminated more than 48% of the cases exceeding adopted time standards, while magistrate judges have eliminated over 54% of their cases which were over the standards.

Clearly, Idaho's trial judges have accepted the challenge of reducing delay in their courts. In so doing, they have taken a leadership role in solving the national problem of unnecessary court delay.

DISTRICT JUDGES CONTINUE PRODUCTIVITY INCREASE

Idaho's district judges continued to increase their productivity by disposing of 1,006 more cases than were filed. Of the 33 district judges, 22 reduced their current pending case load over the course of the year.

It's like having 256,00 0 crayons in one box.

The new graphics.

Back in the dark ages of personal computing, the world was ruled by numbers and words. Graphics were a nicety, but rarely a necessity.

Welcome to the Renaissance.

The IBM Personal System/2 has a talent for graphics that's dazzling.

Each new system can paint up to 256 colors on the screen at once, drawing from an incredible palette of over 256,000. And not one of those colors costs a penny extra.

Even in monochrome, things aren't monotonous. There can be up to 64 shades of gray for new dimension and contrast.

And the images themselves are greatly improved. The tiny "pixels" that create the image can now be tinier, and there can be lots more of them. Even the space between them seems to have disappeared. So pictures are sharp and clearly defined.

Better letters.

Equally important, letters and numbers are clean-edged and precise, looking more like they're printed than projected. After a few hours with your trusty spreadsheet, you'll appreciate that.

You'll also like the non-glare viewing surface, and mountings that tilt and swivel so your neck doesn't have to.

There are four new IBM displays, and each works with every Personal System/2 computer, all showing graphic improvements in price.

The 12" monochrome and 14" color displays are great for most general-purpose work. The 12" color display is even sharper, ideal for detailed business graphics. And for design work, there's the big 16" color display with even higher resolving power.

Your favorite programs.

Just about any program you can run on the IBM Personal System/2 will look better, and will likely be more pleasant to spend time with. Many other programs are being reworked just to take advantage of the new graphics.

But the future holds real surprises. The screens of the Personal System/2 are like a brand new kind of canvas. How the artists will use them should be something to see.

CHILD SUPPORT GUIDELINES . . .

automatic wage garnishments to ensure that child support gets paid.

Some studies have shown a history of below poverty-line support awards, coupled with wide variances from judge to judge across the states in the amount of support ordered. A changing society, wherein single-parent families are on the rise, and studies which compare pre-divorce standards of living with post-divorce standards, have kindled the move toward more equitable awards.

Committee Appointed

In 1987, the Idaho Supreme Court appointed a committee of magistrate judges and lawyers (see membership list) to review the issues, such as income determinations, the costs of rearing children, standard of living decreases from pre-divorce to post-divorce, gross versus net income considerations, whether or not the non-custodial parent should shoulder the entire child support obligation, and split or shared custody situations. The committee drafted guidelines for the purpose of 1) protecting the best interests of children; 2) producing a uniform method; 3) achieving an equitable support order; 4) leading to predictability; and 5) minimizing litigation. On December 31, 1987, the committee presented their proposed Child Support Guidelines to the Supreme Court.

Public Hearing Held

At a public hearing on November 4, 1988, the court took evidence and comments regarding the proposed guidelines. After reviewing this evidence and considering other comments and concerns received throughout the year, the court suggested revisions for the committee to consider as they reworked the guidelines.

The final, redrafted guidelines provide a uniform, systematic approach to awarding child support amounts. They are intended to be advisory guidelines to aid judges in evaluating individual cases.

The suggested child support awards are premised on the principle that both parents share the legal responsibility for supporting their child, and that the division of this shared responsibility should be determined on the basis of their combined economic resources. To avoid the suspicion of "hidden alimony," in middle and upper income level support awards, the guidelines provide that the child support amount is reduced as income levels increase.

Calculating the Support Amount

The established formula for calculating the child support amount is based on the combined gross income of both parents. For one child, the amount is calculated on the basis of 17% of the first $10,000 of income, 15% of the next $20,000, 13% of the next $20,000, and 10% of the next $20,000; for two children, 25% of the first $10,000, 23% of the next $20,000, 20% of the next $20,000, and 15% of the next $20,000; for three child-

Total Filings Drop; Felonies Jump

DUI REPORT: FEWER CASES, FOR SECOND YEAR

Fewer drunken driving cases came into the Idaho trial courts during 1988 than in 1987. Calendar year 1988 saw DUI filings drop 1% from 12,608 in 1987, to 11,928. Since the new DUI law was enacted in 1983, DUI cases had declined until 1986, when there was an increase of 8% over the previous year. With 1988's decline, coming on the heels of a 3% drop in 1987, court officials are hopeful that the tide in drunken driving may have turned.

The "New DUI Law"

In 1983, the Idaho Legislature passed a "tough" new law to deter drunken driving. Immediately after the new law took effect on July 1, 1983, DUI charges dropped sharply statewide, offering hope that tougher sentences were discouraging drivers from drinking. Misdemeanor DUI complaints rebounded slightly in 1984 and again increased in 1986, but when adjusted for changes in the felony statutes, were still less than in pre-law (before the DUI law went into effect) days. In 1986, DUI complaints increased for the first time since the new law went into effect. This increase raised concerns as to whether the educational effort and increased activity of law enforcement was having a significant effect.

Felonies Way Up

The new DUI law allows prosecutors to upgrade a misdemeanor to a felony only when prior DUI convictions occurred after July 1, 1983. Thus, DUI defendants who might otherwise have been prosecuted on a felony charge, were given a clean slate as of that date. As a result, the number of DUI felony complaints first dropped dramatically beginning on July 1, 1983, to 90 complaints, but have risen steadily since. In 1988, 460 felony charges were filed throughout Idaho, up 34% from 1987.

While it was anticipated that felonies would decline immediately after the passage of the new law, it was also expected that they would increase again in succeeding years as defendants accumulated multiple DUI charges. The steady increase in felony DUI filings since 1984 seems to confirm that expectation.

Trials Stabilize

The number of DUI cases going to trial, which had increased from about 3% in "pre-new law" days, to 12% in December of 1983, appears now to have stabilized once again at about 3% of the dispositions statewide in 1988.

More Jail Time

Defendants convicted of DUI charges continue to receive sentences of incarceration at higher rates than before the new law went into effect. Although some sentences are suspended, 86.4% of the defendants who appeared before a judge for sentencing on misdemeanor DUI charges were sentenced to jail in 1988, up from 81.2% in 1987. Prior to the new DUI law, only 43% of the defendants appearing before a judge received a sentence including incarceration.

Plea Bargaining

About 69.3% of the DUI defendants pled guilty to DUI charges in 1988, down 8.7% from the 78% average of defendants who pled guilty prior to the new law.

The number of defendants pleading guilty to reduced or amended charges-"plea" or "charge bargains"-appears now to have stabilized at 19% of total dispositions. In Ada County, Idaho's largest county, the number of defendants pleading guilty to reduced or amended charges has dropped from a high of 42.3% in December of 1983, to an average of 18.8% in 1988.

Cause Uncertain

It is impossible to determine through statistics the exact causes for increases or decreases in DUI complaints. Court caseloads can be influenced by the level of law enforcement activities, which in turn can be influenced by local government budgets. Hopefully, the decrease in DUI cases reported during 1988 shows that tough penalties, increased law enforcement, and public education can combine to take the drinking driver out of the courts and off Idaho's roads.

CHILD SUPPORT GUIDELINES . . .

ren, 29% of the first $10,000, 27% of the next $20,000, 24% of the next $20,000, and 20% of the next $20,000; for four children, 31% of the first $10,000, 29% of the next $20,000, 26% of the next $20,000, and 21% of the next $20,000; and for five children, 34% of the first $10,000, 31% of the next $20,000, 28% of the next $20,000, and 24% of the next $20,000. Once the support figure is established, the amount is prorated between the spouses in proportion to their gross incomes. In cases where the combined gross income is above $70,000, the guidelines make no recommendation, leaving the award amount to be decided on a case-by-case basis.

In shared physical custody situations, adjustments are made when each parent has the child for more than 35% of the year, accrued in periods of at least three consecutive overnights. In this instance, the support obligation is adjusted by multiplying each parent's child support obligation by the percentage of time that the child spends with the other parent. The guidelines also address instances involving extended visits and split physical custody.

Guidelines to be Adopted

As the year ended, the courts readied the guidelines for adoption, to be effective April 1, 1989. This date was chosen to allow the Legislature the opportunity to consider the guidelines and to determine whether legislators would rather adopt their own guidelines by statute, or to defer to the guidelines which have been adopted by the Supreme Court.

Copies of the Child Support Guidelines are available upon request from the Administrative Office of the Courts.

INTRODUCTION

In 1973, the Idaho state judiciary was one of the first to implement a computerized system to collect detailed information on every case filed in each of its trial courts. "CLASS" (Case Load Analysis Support System), has been in use continually since 1973, with occasional refinements, and today stands as one of the best systems of its kind in the nation. The Idaho trial court judges and their deputy clerks have dedicated themselves to providing statistical data, which is critical to the reliability of the system.

Gathering information for measuring past and present case load factors is crucial to obtaining an accurate picture of the current situation, historical trends, and future projections. Idaho's trial courts provide information through reports every day. After these reports are closely scrutinized and edited, the data is entered into the CLASS system through the Supreme Court's computer. Monthly management reports are then prepared for the Administrative Office of the Courts, District Administrative Judges, Trial Court Administrators, District Judges, Magistrate Judges and District Court Clerks. The recipients usually receive these reports within two weeks after the close of each month. The CLASS system also produces statistical information used in annual reports to the Governor and the State Legislature. The information generated by the CLASS system has become an integral part of the planning, budgeting and daily operational processes of the Idaho courts.

This Appendix to the Idaho Courts Annual Report for 1988 consists primarily of a year-end report generated by the CLASS system, with the exception of the appellate case load information found on the first pages. The information on pages 1-3 was derived from reports generated by the automated system "ATS" (Appeal Tracking System), also developed entirely in-house and resident on the Supreme Court's computer.

The Administrative Office of the Courts would like to thank the Idaho trial court judges and clerks for their cooperation and hard work. Through dedication to CLASS reporting activities, they have contributed to the success of the system and to Idaho's position as one of the best court systems in the nation.

*These figures are reflected in the "Added/Transf" columns of the individual appellate courts' case load reports found on the two following pages.

NOTE: Newly-filed appeals are classified as "unassigned" until they reach the At Issue stage. At this point, each appeal is either retained by the Supreme Court or assigned to the Court of Appeals. Until they are thus distributed, they are considered part of the overall appellate case load, but are not counted as part of the case load of either court.

The following chart combines and summarizes, by major case type groups, the case load activities of all three elements: Unassigned cases, Supreme Court cases, and Court of Appeals cases.
